2019/02	04.01.2019	Email		In the press yesterday it was mentioned that 1000 English and Scottish Police Officers are being trained for deployment in Northern Ireland to support the PSNI in the event of a No deal Brexit, and that these officers will be taken from ordinary duties to undertake this training.  Do you have any information about whether Lancashire is losing any officers to this training? If so, I'd be grateful for further information about how many, where they are usually deployed, the impact on Policing levels both now during the training and in the event of them being deployed to NI, and what contingencies, if any, the Constabulary have for this.  If the PCC has any broader information regarding the Constabulary's planning for Brexit, and in particular a No Deal Brexit, I'd be grateful for that as well.	Response sent by email on 16.01.19 – Info not held – transferred to Constab on 16.01.19	Yes
